WAYNE HANSEN

CHIEF ERIC JOHNSEN

CINDY NAYLOR

After more than thirty years with Farmington City—over twenty of those as police chief—Wayne Hansen is retiring. Chief Hansen has been the foundation of his department and is known for having good judgment and instincts. He is respected as a good sounding board and a humble leader.

When asked about his time with the FPD, Chief Hansen said, "It has been an incredible honor and privilege to serve this wonderful community for Welcome Eric Johnsen, Farmington City's new chief of police. Chief Johnsen may be new to the position, but he is not new to Farmington. He began working at the FPD in 2001 and was named Officer of the Year in 2008 and 2010. He has an impressive array of experience and accomplishments.

As chief, Eric will lead his department in accomplishing their mission which is, in part,

Congratulations to Cindy Naylor, who is retiring from the Farmington Police Department after 32 years of service. Cindy's wealth of knowledge enabled her to handle and de-escalate many calls without involving police officers, giving them more time to handle serious issues. Her professionalism, positive attitude, and willingness to go the extra mile made her a valuable asset to the department. Big thanks go to Cindy from the community, and best wishes for an interesting and rewarding next chapter.

An RFP is being prepared by the PRAT advisory board for a consultant to assist in the development of a master plan. The consultant will help the board gather input from the community about their vision for parks, recreation, arts and trails. Then, assessing existing services, facilities and resources, the consultant and advisory board will prepare a PRAT master plan.

Subcommittees will be formed for each branch of PRAT. If you have interest in getting involved, please contact P & R director, Colby Thackeray at cthackeray@farmington.utah.gov.

The objectives of Farmington City team sports go beyond simply winning games. Positive sportsmanship is an estimable quality for athletes of all ages and should be taught in company with physical aptitude.

Occasionally, athletes and their parents express frustration or confusion, thinking that competitive advantage is being ignored; however, recreation programs are developed for diversity, inclusion, and equity. Coaches are encouraged to have all players participate equally in each game. Members of city teams learn and practice rules of the game, skills, and good sportsmanship. They learn how to win and how to lose honorably. They help each other to succeed.

Farmington recreation looks for coaches who reward positive performance at practices and games and set good sportsmanship as an expectation. Team members respect both teammates and opponents.

Diversity and inclusion are also of central importance in youth plays. Everyone who auditions is guaranteed a role in the play.

Farmington recreation holds fast to these core values and believes that it will have an impact on participants' quality of character.

FIREWORKS SAFETY REMINDER

ILLEGAL FIREWORKS WARNINGS WILL NOT BE ISSUED. CITATIONS WILL BE.

- It is unlawful to discharge any fireworks or pyrotechnic devices east of red line (see map on the city website).
- In all areas of Farmington, it is unlawful to discharge fireworks or pyrotechnic devices within 20 feet of combustible weeds, grasses, trees, shrubs, fences or structures and city parks, unless specifically designated for use of consumer fireworks.
- Approved fireworks may be discharged from July 2–5th and July 22–25th from 11:00 am–11:00 pm, except on July 4 and 24 when they may be discharged until midnight.

... to protect and serve all those who live, work in and travel through Farmington City. The core values of CHARACTER, HONOR, COURAGE, COMMITMENT and the PURSUIT OF EXCELLENCE bond us and embolden us to make a positive impact upon those we serve. . .

Chief Johnsen knew from the time he was a child that he wanted to be a police officer. Although he began his professional career in his father's business, he was eventually able to sell his interest and follow his childhood dream. Chief Johnsen's roots go back to Missouri, but his years of serving and protecting this community have led him to consider Farmington his home. "It is the honor of my life to be appointed the fifth full-time chief of police. The city has changed vastly during my time and there is much more growth to come. We have an amazing department, with incredibly capable and honorable officers that I am fortunate to work with every day," Chief Johnsen stated.

Eric and his wife Teresa have five children and five grandchildren. He is a lifelong fan of the Kansas City Royals and Chiefs. Time spent with family is his favorite, especially when it involves golfing, skiing, camping, or traveling.

Chief Johnsen says, "The FPD strives to make sure that everything we do and say is in accordance with our vision, mission, core values, and oath of office. We are not perfect. I expect us to learn from our mistakes, correct them, and move forward better tomorrow than we were today." 🌱 the past thirty-two years. I will always cherish the memories I have made here. Farmington is great because of the citizens that make up our community. I have seen a lot of change during my tenure, but one thing that has remained constant is the support of our citizens. I want to thank this community for all of the support and friendship through the years. I know that Farmington will continue to be a landmark city in our state as we move forward."

Chief Hansen will be greatly missed. Farmington has been a safer place because of him. 🌲
